Ausley & Co.'s Daily Cotton Letter.

New York, Mar. 20.—Liverpool cables this morning were strong but hardly met the advance here of yesterday. Spots were advanced 1 point while futures were reduced one to two points.

Our markets opened about unchanged and some covering by shorts who feared the ginners' report caused an advance of about 4 or 5 points but about 9:30 a. m. the government notified all concerned that they would not be able to issue the report until 2 p. m. Washington time, and a number of longs who were getting shaky, for what reason we cannot imagine, began to cover their holdings and values were forced down some 13 points, after which flurry the market steadied down and both sides seemed satisfied to wait until the government gave to the world its final report of the cotton situation during the season of 1905-06.

Mr. Theo. H. Price was out with a circular in New York after the close yesterday giving his estimates of the government's figures (10,700,000) and should these figures prove very nearly correct we look for very little change in prices from the present level.

The weather was fairly good in the western belt although much cold but no rain being reported from Texas, while heavy rains fell along the Atlantic coast. However all reports say the ground is all ready for seeding and indications point to the largest acreage ever planted and with anything like a favorable season, the crop of 1904-05 will look small compared to the one in view. This is the main reason that it has been impossible so far in the present season to find a bull leader with the money and nerve to force prices high enough to drive the strong shorts to cover and by so doing inaugurate an upward movement which would very likely give Mr. Jordan his much talked of 15 cents, but from present indications the bears seem confident that such a man will not be forthcoming and they will be able to force values below the 10 cent mark before the new cotton shall begin to move and they seem to be standing on pretty solid ground as there is seldom two unfavorable seasons in succession and there seems to be plenty of cotton to go around this year, the spinners now making the claim that they can run well into the new season with their present supplies, but we have known them to make this very same claim when they did not have enough of the raw material on hand to run 60 days. The spinner wants cheap cotton and he always makes every effort to get it even to making false reports of his stock on hand.

The ginners' report was issued at 1 p. m., showed 10,697,000 bales ginned including linters and counting bales as half bales. Prices fell rapidly upon its publication. May touching 10.30 but shorts taking profits steadied the market somewhat and at 1:30 p. m. prices had reacted some 10 points.
